The Federal Work Study Program is designed to help with college expenses. You will be assigned to a job either on campus or at a community service site, depending on the available positions. You will be required to establish a work schedule with your supervisor, generally working around your school schedule, and perform job duties as assigned. Depending on your specific situation, you may need to apply your paycheck funds toward your student account balance. You will not be eligible for the Federal Work Study Program if you are on financial aid probation or suspension.
